

NEWS LETTER CHRISTMAS EDITION ..

NEW YEARS LATE AT THE BP.....

Ho Ho Hopeless... WTF are they thinking?

Amazing Thailand GETS more and more amazing EACH day. Recently there was a bill submitted by the Dept. of Health and Safety requesting a "Ban on All Alcohol sales on New Years and Songkran Holidays"... Obviously, this Sent Alarms through the streets and EVEN made front news in the USA and Australia. The BAN was shot down by the PM, but not after days and days of Word of mouth. One side is constantly saying that Thailand is doing EVERYTHING to restore the Tourists Slump, while the other side seems to be doing EVERYTHING they possibly can to scare people away. Recently another NEWS flash came out and bounced all over international Media— THIS being the Shake down of Foreigners by police. For anyone who has been in Thailand for a while, they will surely have a story of some cop incident— BUT the fact that a mass amounts of foreign tourists and expats were being strip searched and forced to pee in a cup on the side of the road without any reason at all caused a huge flare of media uproar— AS IT SHOULD. The Shocking or SAD part of this is that the Media takes it and stories like these DO make it around the world very fast. A few days later— it was announced that "ANY Foreigner Can decline a search or piss test"...? SO why are they doing it in the first place? NO real reason. Take away one source of funding...one will find another. The Thai way of handling things used to make everyone laugh— A few years back the Thai Police punished their own officers if they committed a petty crime by making them wear a Hello Kitty Arm band over their Police uniform. The Police Actually hired monkeys as part of their police team to mend relations between themselves and the citizens. The Idea being that people who drove up to check points saw a monkey wearing a uniform and they would smile and laugh and be happy to talk with the police. The Government needs to consider some of these other tactics. This type of NEWS makes people want to come to Thailand again. Banning booze on holidays does not STOP people from drinking and driving and making people PISS test on the side of the road does not STOP people from doing whatever they are going to do.. THE only thing that it does is create news that goes viral about the STUPID things Thailand is doing... and that will NOT help bring More tourists... BUT a monkey wearing a Hello Kitty Arm Band WILL... :)

Sri Lanka: Introduces Go Go To Casinos!

The Casinos in Sri Lanka have been getting a little KISS from Thailand in the form of 9 Sexy Dancers. Recently Balleys Casino in Sri Lanka had their 19th year anniversary Party and invited some of Thailand's most lovely ladies to come dance for a week in the casino. Good Time for All.. The girls got paid, the casino was very hospitable, and the guests got to see something like they never had before. The reality was that when the Bangkok Ladies got on stage and danced— Almost everyone STOPPED playing their card games or roulette and instead broke out their cameras and took photos of filmed the Sexy GoGo style shows. The Girls were also given unlimited drinks and food— so YES— many a drunken nights were had. Sri Lanka has very little in the form of a night life and they are trying to improve this.. After visiting the Black Pagoda and seeing the Club like atmosphere with the addition of sexy dancers, they decided to give this a go-go with their operations. Success! More events are planned and maybe one day there will be a BP in Colombo?!?
